

Do you have any books that are like The Hunger Games?

Matched by Allie Condie

The first title of a trilogy. Cassia falls in love with someone other than the boy whom 'the Society' deems to be her perfect 'match' which causes her to start to question all that she has known before...

The Maze Runner by James Dashner

A boy suffering from amnesia finds himself in an encampment surrounded by wall where half robot creatures hunt the people that live there.

Wither by Lauren DeStefano

In a future world where women die at the age of 20, 16-year-old Ellery is kidnapped and married to a man whose wife is about to die.

Dark Parties by Sara Grant

A teenager seeks the truth about the oppressive society in which she lives. Sixteen-year-old Neva plots to escape her world, where everyone looks the same and no one is allowed to leave, in this compelling thriller about identity, trust and freedom. NOTE: Contains violence, strong language and sex scenes (not explicit).

SACHI LLOYD Momentum by Sachi Lloyd

Two teenagers are drawn together in a future where the world is at war over energy, and London is governed by a cruel military regime.

NOTE: Contains violence and suggestions of torture.

Birthmarked by Caragh O'Brien

Set in a future where the world has been ravaged by global warming, babies are produced to be raised by the fortunate few who live in the safe "Enclave". Each month the people outside the wall must deliver a quota of babies to the Enclave, to be raised by parents within and brainwashed to forget about the world outside. NOTE: Contains scenes of death during child birth.

Delirium by Lauren Oliver

In a world where love has been eradicated by science, Lena tries to escape her "cure" when she turns eighteen, after she falls in love with Alex. Scientists are able to eradicate love, and the government demands that all citizens receive the cure upon turning eighteen.

Starter by Lissa Price

Set in a future where teenagers can rent their bodies to people who want to be youthful again, a girl finds her body being used to commit a murder.

NOTE: Contains violence and mild swearing.

Under the Never Sky by Veronica Rossi

Living in an enclosed dome which protects her from a post-apocalyptic wasteland, Aria ventures outside of her enclosed world to search for her missing mother. Then Aria meets an outsider named Perry. He's searching for someone too. He's also wild - a savage - but might be her best hope for staying alive. If they can survive, they are each other's best hope for finding answers.

Divergent by Veronica Roth

When Tris is asked to choose her path in society, she goes against her family's faction and discovers that the perfect society she lives in isn't as it seems. NOTE: Contains strong language and lots of scenes of dangerous behaviour. It's very violent, with one particularly unpleasant scene where a boy has a knife stuck in his eye while he is asleep by a rival.

(Shortlisted for the Waterstones Children's Book Prize 2012)

Inside Out by Maria V Snyder

A girl starts a revolution in a society where the majority of people are considered underclass and working for a chosen minority. NOTE: Contains mild swearing, violence and scenes of torture.

Slated by Teri Terry

A girl whose memory has been wiped blank searches for the truth about her past which is being kept hidden from her. Sixteen-year-old Kyla has been 'slated': all of her past memories erased, her entire personality wiped blank. Without her memories, how will Kyla ever find the truth?

Blood Red Road by Moira Young

Set in a violent future world, Saba sets out on an epic quest to rescue her brother. In a lawless land, where life is cheap and survival is hard, Saba has been brought up in isolated Silverlake. She never sees the dangers of the destructive society outside until now. NOTE: Contains some extremely violent scenes and moderate swearing. (Winner of the Costa Children's Book Award 2011 & Branford Boase longlist 2012)

All These Things I've Done by Gabrielle Zevin

A 16 year old girl who has been accused of attempted murder is forced to choose between protecting her family and being with the boy she loves. NOTE: Contains some swearing, violence and an attempted rape.
