Medical School Admissions Webinar!

Staff from medical schools across the UK will talk about how best to help your students apply for medicine.

Are you a teacher or career adviser helping young people from disadvantaged backgrounds apply to study medicine?

Are you unsure if the admissions process has changed because of the pandemic, and if you have the most up to do information?

The Medical Schools Council will host a webinar where deans of medical schools, admissions tutors and widening participation leads will discuss the changes that medical schools have seen in admissions. They will also discuss some of the key questions and concerns that they know applicants and teachers have and highlight some practical steps and resources that teachers and careers advisers can make use of. Register for the webinar here.

The webinar will take place on 8 June 2020 from 11am until 12pm.

This will be the first in a series of monthly webinars hosted by the Medical Schools Council exploring the various aspects of applying to medical school.

About the Medical Schools Council

The Medical Schools Council is the representative body for UK medical schools. The council is made of the heads of UK medical schools and meets in order to shape the future of medical education in the UK.
